

Abstract

Coal based carbon foams that are produced by the controlled heating of coal particulate in a mold and under a non-oxidizing atmosphere and subsequently 5 graphitized have been found to provide excellent electrode materials for electrochemical cell applications.

10